

Pieter Both Mountain Climbing

Discover the joy of hiking with this technical & high adrenaline adventure.

We start at 07h00 and hike up a small steep trail that takes us directly to a vertical dihedral where we scramble up the shoulder to reach the foot of a gully. Part of the gully is climbed roped up. The view is breath-taking. Far below you see Crève Coeur Valley and La Laura village. The last part of the climb to reach the neck is scrambling and rock climbing with ropes. You come across ridges with 500 metres drops on either sides, roped up for safety to reach 'the balcony' beneath the great shoulder perched on the very top. Summiting from the shoulder can be done only if there are no passing clouds. We will hike down through the same route, in approximately 3 hours. This mountain required a good level of fitness and ability to be exposed to height.
